Jesus: Resurrection and Life by His Beatitude Gregorios III

Jesus promised resurrection to his disciples (John 6: 39-40) and also told them, "I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever." (John 6: 51) In Bethany, where he raised Lazarus from the dead, Christ said to Martha, "I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live." (John 11: 25) All the miracles of Jesus are miracles of life, since he restores man to life, by opening ears and eyes, restoring strength to withered hands, enabling the lame and paralytics to walk with head held high, and recalling the dead to life.

Jesus is the Master of life and the guide of the progress of the children of the Resurrection, as he walked on the roads of the Holy Land, in Jerusalem, Galilee, Nazareth, beside the Lake of Tiberias and on the road to Emmaus with his disciples Luke and Cleopas... He continues to walk with the Church, with the sons and daughters of the Resurrection and the Church.

The children of the Resurrection are builders of Syria of the future. The children of our churches and institutions are builders of love and peace.

Resurrection behavior

The words of the well-known French Abbé Pierre (1912-2007), one of the first worker-priests, who are worthy to inspire children of the Resurrection, invite us to this:

"I shall continue to believe, even if everyone loses hope.

I'll continue to love, even if others distil hatred.

I'll continue to build, even if others destroy.

I'll continue to talk peace even in the midst of a war.

I'll continue to spread light, even in the midst of darkness.

I'll continue to sow, even if others trample the harvest.

And I will continue to shout, even if others are silent.

And I shall draw smiles on faces in tears.

And I'll bring relief, when we see the pain.

And I'll offer reasons for joy, where there is only sadness.

I will encourage the one who decided to stop to keep walking ...

And I'll stretch out my arms to those who feel exhausted."

"Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, ..." Mark 10:14

"To convert somebody go and take them by the hand and guide them." St. Thomas Aquinas

THE MADNESS OF SIN

But none of these things [that he said] turned back that savage madman [i.e., Judas]. And yet, really Jesus said and did far more than this: he washed his feet that night, made him a sharer in the table and the salt, which is a thing that should restrain even the souls of robbers. He also spoke other words, enough to melt a stone, and he did this, not a long time before but on the very day in order that not even time might cause it to be forgotten. But none of this affected Judas. CHRYSOSTOM: HOMILIES ON THE GOSPEL OF JOHN 65.2.
